Building Bridges Across the Class Divide

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

CAVIAR, COUPONS AND COLLEGE: STORIES ACROSS THE CLASS SPECTRUM (working title)

- When was the first time you realized what class you grew up in?
- What were some of the strengths you got from your class experience?
- What were some of the limitations?
- What stereotypes about your class were or weren't true for you? What class stereotypes did you most worry about embodying?
- Have you been expected to lift as you climb?
- Is there class tension between you and family members, friends, co-workers, or community?
- Tell us about an "a-ha" moment in the development of your class consciousness.

SHARE YOUR CLASS STORY

Class Action, a national non-profit working for economic justice and to "inspire action to end classism," is putting together an anthology of personal stories from across the class divide, and is calling for submissions from folks across the class spectrum in the hope of furthering our collective dialogue about class. We especially encourage voices from groups that have been marginalized.

Submissions should be from 1,000 to 2,500 words, and include a brief one paragraph biography about you, the author. Submissions will be accepted through February 28, 2009.

Please email submissions to Pete Redington at predington@classism.org. Be sure to write "anthology submission" in the subject line.
